

School of Education: Series of Research and Practice-based Seminars

How to LAND that Academic/Professional Position: Strategising your Graduate Degree Experience

Abstract

As graduate students, we are often bogged down with the completion of our degree. However, that should not be our end goal. As part of our learning journey, we need to fully capitalise on our graduate degree experience and build our resume so that we will be positioned well to move on to the next stage of our career development --- LANDING that academic/professional position!

Come share your experiences and hear suggestions from TWO renowned academics on how to:

- Build your resume
- Select conferences to attend and present
- Plan a publications strategy
- Choose research and teaching assistantships
- Network and collaborate with other researchers/academics within and across disciplines
- Develop an online presence
- Etc.

Details

Date: 13 October 2017, Friday

Time: 11:00 to 12:00

Venue: F4B09a

The University of Nottingham Malaysia Campus
Jalan Broga 43500 Semenyih Selangor Darul Ehsan

This event is free and open to all. All are welcome.

For more information on the event, kindly contact Dr Alefiya Nomanbhoy.

The Series of Research- and Practice-based Seminars are run by the School of Education academic members of staff and external speakers in various education-related strands (e.g. Education; Educational Leadership and Management; Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL); Special and Inclusive Education).

Email Dr Alefiya Nomanbhoy

Professor Andrew Noyes

Professor Andrew Noyes is Head of the School of Education, University of Nottingham (UK Campus). He joined the University in 2001, having taught in secondary schools for ten years. He has led doctoral, teacher education and Masters courses and has supervised students from many areas of education. Andy is a member of the Centre for Research in Mathematics Education and has a wide variety of research interests, largely focused on mathematics education, 14-19 learner pathways and education policy.

Professor Tony Bush

Professor Tony Bush is Professor of Educational Leadership at the University of Nottingham (UK and Malaysia). He is also editor of a leading international journal listed in the Social Sciences Citation Index. He has directed research projects in many countries, including Malaysia. His extensive publications include 30 books and 90 refereed journal articles. He is currently supervising 16 Ph.D. students, including nine in Malaysia, and he has examined doctoral theses in Australia, Brunei, China, Hong Kong, Malaysia, New Zealand, Norway, Singapore, South Africa and the UK.