Book Spine Rhyme

What is book spine rhyme?
Book spine poetry is considered "found" poetry; that is, a poem made up of words from other sources.
On Library Day, you, the poet, aren't writing the words, trying to fit a form, or looking for words that rhyme. Instead, with library book spines, you can simply arrange books so their titles to create a poem rhyme.
How to join?
You can participate as solo or pair.
Go to Library Level C, pick up 5 or more library books, try with different combination of book spines. Once you satisfied with the 'poem rhyme' that you have created, snap a photo of it and submit to us.
Who will win?
Voting session will be on 29 September 2022. Book spine rhyme photos will be pasted on Library Level B lounge area for viewing and voting. Most likes photos will be the winner for this game.

Get creative with book cover!

BOOKFACE CHALLENGE

Replace your face or body part with a library book's cover and snap a photo

Post the photo on your Instagram with following criteria:

1. Follow @unmlibrary
2. Tag at least 3 friends on your post
3. Caption is starting with @unmlibrary bookface challenge #libraryday #discoverconnectinspire #bookface
4. You may add creative caption to promote your photo

Follow UNM Library Instagram

Most like photo will be the winner

Everything in this world is connected. We only have to have a creative mind to find a connection between two seemingly disconnected things.

That is simply what the Bookface Challenge is about: connecting the book cover with something in real life. The result is life and art merged into one picture.

Get a library book with face or body part as book cover.

Tips:

If the face on the book cover is the same size as your face, hold the book close. If larger than your face, hold the book further away. Get friends involved, to hold the book, take the photo, or to pose with you with their own bookface.

Book Tower

Can you spot the UNM Trent Building book tower in Library?
Submit your GUESS of how many books to build the UNM Trent building's replica by 3pm on 29 September 2022.
Only one guess per user and the closest 3 guesses will be announced as winners.
Winner will be notified through email.
Have fun guessing! (And don't think you can cheat by asking library staff how many books there are. We don't know. Opps.....)
Don't forget to take a photo with this book tower and share on your Instagram. (and tag us @unmlibrary)
